"I remember going to Bridging all those years ago. There was a gentleman who helped me. He was so welcoming. I didn't want to take too much. He said, 'Take what you need.' I got a dresser, artwork, and all the kitchen stuff I needed to cook for my toddler. I got a big, fluffy couch. I was able to sit down there. I felt comfortable and safe. I remember being so excited to have my own place. Everything looked so nice. It felt like I finally had something of my own I could share with my family."
